Ashton McKinley and his friends plan on having fun on the school hosted campout at the end of seventh grade. But what they did not know, seven months before, the American Science Association experimented on the lake located next to the campsite, turning them into vampires after a horrible accident. Once Ashton and his friends arrive, they find out thereu0026#39;s more to worry about than getting bug bites and sunburn. They are put face to face with these vampires and the only variable is survival to last out the week.
